The Authors

The authors of Emails From China are Natalie and Brad. Natalie is from Melbourne, Australia, and Brad is from Sydney. They met while teaching English in South Korea in 2008. They have been living and working in China since 2010.

The Book

Emails From China is a collection of emails that Natalie and Brad wrote to their friends and family in Australia. The emails are full of humor, heart, and adventure. They provide an insight into the lives of these teachers and the challenges and rewards of living in a foreign country.

The book is divided into three parts. The first part, "Arrival," describes Natalie and Brad's first experiences in China. They write about their culture shock, their struggles with learning Chinese, and their attempts to adjust to a new way of life.

The second part of the book, "Teaching," describes Natalie and Brad's experiences teaching English in China. They write about their students, their colleagues, and the challenges of teaching in a foreign language.

The third part of the book, "Life in China," describes Natalie and Brad's experiences living in China. They write about their travels, their friendships, and their love for the Chinese people.
