Once upon a time, there was a baby crow named Crow. Crow was the smallest and youngest of all the baby crows in the nest. He was so small that he could barely fly. All the other baby crows made fun of Crow because he was so small. They called him names like "Little Crow" and "Baby Bird". But Crow didn't mind. He knew that he was special, even if he was small.

One day, Crow decided that he was going to fly to the top of the tallest tree in the forest. All the other baby crows laughed at him and told him that he would never be able to do it. But Crow didn't listen. He spread his wings and took off. He flew and flew and flew, until he finally reached the top of the tree. All the other baby crows were amazed. They had never seen Crow fly so high before. Crow looked down at them and smiled. He knew that he could do anything he set his mind to.
