

Tour of the Bulge Battlefields: A Battleground Special

The Battle of the Bulge was one of the most important battles of World War II. It was fought in the Ardennes region of Belgium, Luxembourg, and Germany from December 16, 1944, to January 25, 1945. The battle was a German offensive that was intended to split the Allied forces in two and capture Antwerp. The Allies were able to stop the German advance and eventually defeat them.

This book is a tour guide to the battlefields of the Battle of the Bulge. It covers all the major sites of the battle, including Bastogne, Foy, and Malmédy. The book provides detailed descriptions of the fighting that took place at each site, as well as maps and photographs.

Bastogne was one of the most important battles of the Battle of the Bulge. The city was defended by the 101st Airborne Division, which was surrounded by German forces. The 101st Airborne held out for several days, until they were relieved by the 4th Armored Division.
